Artlogic Announces its Merger with exhibit-E, galleryManager and ArtBase

New Partnership Brings Three Leaders in Art Technology Under the Artlogic Brand

London, UK, January 11th 2022—Artlogic, the leading provider of online solutions for the art world, is excited to announce its merger with New York-based exhibit-E, galleryManager and ArtBase, enhancing Artlogic's presence in North and South America and solidifying its global position as the leading business platform for the art world.

The new partnership brings three leaders in art technology together under the Artlogic brand, combining decades of knowledge, expertise and innovation. Joining forces will accelerate a collective mission to transform the art world, helping galleries, artists, and collectors thrive and grow in an increasingly online art market.

"Dan Miller (exhibit-E and galleryManager) and Tanya Van Sant (ArtBase) have built outstanding businesses with hugely talented and devoted teams," said Joe Elliott, Co-Managing Director, Artlogic. "Our shared values and vision for the art world make this a perfect match. ArtBase and galleryManager each have decades of experience building first-class gallery management software and bring with them phenomenal clients, all of whom we can't wait to work with. Over time and as it suits each individual business, our platform will offer improved services and tools to help them harness and convert sales with greater efficiency, increase marketing output and streamline their operations."

"The worldwide pandemic has created a dramatic acceleration of galleries moving online in ways we have never seen before. It has generated an unprecedented demand for our website products over the past two years. Joining forces with exhibit-E and collaborating with them creates an exciting opportunity to significantly increase our capacity for website development, with a focus on the American market. Drawing on exhibit-E's tenured history of producing many of the leading websites in the art world, we will continue to build amazing new features to benefit all of our clients. Together, we will shape the future of how the art world does business online," said Tom Brickman, Co-Managing Director, Artlogic.

"Our mission at ArtBase has always been to help art professionals get the most out of their businesses. Folding the art world's three technology leaders into the Artlogic brand lets us take that commitment to new heights. Together, we can do more for our clients than we ever imagined," said Tanya Van Sant, President, ArtBase Inc.

"We intend to bring both of our teams together, under one roof working alongside Artlogic toward one goal, to promote the best product for our clients. It is the opportunity to be part of the art world company of the century, and there are no words to express our excitement," said Dan Miller, Founder & CEO, exhibit-E and galleryManager.
